Italy Premier Asked To Quit, Riots Feared

ROME (AP) — Italy's powerful Communist party Wednesday night charged pro-Western Premier Mario Scelba with full responsibility for the Wilma Montesi death scandal and demanded his resignation.

The manoeuvre by the largest Communist party organization outside the Iron Curtain had been anticipated. Scelba promised to answer the charges today.

Before the government shaking storm broke on the senate floor, police chiefs of key Italian cities, summoned urgently to Rome, were briefed on how to carry out anti-riot operations.

A high police official said the Communists were expected to stage "disorders and demonstrations."

The Communist assault, joined by fellow-traveling Socialists—developed from the detention Tuesday night of two prominent Romans. They are Piero Piccioni, 32, jazz pianist, son of Attilio Piccioni, who resigned last Saturday as Italy's foreign minister in order, he said, "to defend my son and my family's good name," and a rich, self-styled marquis named Ugo Montagna.

BODY ON BEACH

Both are accused in connection with the death of Miss Montesi, a shapely, 21-year-old party girl. Her death has led to allegations of sex and drug orgies involving persons high in Italy's society and politics. Her nearly nude body was found on the beach at Ostia, Rome's Coney Island, in April, 1953.

From the floor of the senate Senator Umberto Terracini, Communist senate leader, accused Scelba of "being responsible for the Montesi affair."

Have Flowers Ready by 10

Final collection of blooms for this year through the Colonist's share-the-flowers plan starts at 10 a.m. today and gardeners of Greater Victoria who have offered to donate surplus flowers are asked to have them ready by that time.

Blooms contributed to today's collection will be distributed among patients in the Victoria Nursing Home and St. Mary's Priory.

TB in Dead Cattle Spurs Major Search

VANCOUVER (CP) — Discovery of tuberculosis in seven slaughtered cattle from a nearby Lulu Island farm Wednesday touched off an intensive search for the source of the disease.

Dr. F. W. R. Smith, chief federal inspector of animal health in Vancouver, said the search will include farm workers, farmers and their families and "any possible carrier or infected animal or person."

Dr. Smith said discovery of the disease will not prevent the Fraser Valley from being declared TB-free, since one-tenth of one per cent of cattle can be infected in any given area and still be considered free of the disease.

The inspector said he suspected three beef cattle first found to be infected came from the Merritt area, and added that a close check was under way there.

The farm from which the seven infected animals came originally had 20 head, six of which were dairy cattle, but no milk was being shipped from the farm.

Space Travel In 30 Years

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — The first man will be shot into space travel within 30 years, and the first unmanned satellite will be sent into orbital space within 10 years, the American Rocket Society was told Wednesday.

The prediction was made by A. J. Haley of Washington, D.C., president of the society, which is holding its fall meeting here.

Now he is friendly at the school and spends his evenings alone in the cottage he was to share with his bride. She returned to Jamaica last week after only four days of married life and said she was given five days' notice to leave the school "before the boys come and see a colored person here."

Her story has now boiled into an international incident with the Jamaican government protesting to the Canadian government over the insult.

Honeymoon Cottage Lonely

This is the cottage on the grounds of the Shawnigan Lake School where lonely Michael John Hewitt waits hopefully for the return of his Jamaican bride. School governors have said the cottage is still, and always has been, available for the newly married couple, Mr. Hewitt sank all his savings in furniture and a car for his bride and cannot now afford to return to Jamaica to join her. Word is awaited here as to whether or not the pretty model and aquatic star will accept the school governors' invitation to return to the school and "talk things over."

PETERBOROUGH—Victoria Shamrocks and the Canadian Lacrosse Association reached an impasse late last night, with the strong possibility that the western team may fly back home today.

The Shamrocks handed the CLA an ultimatum that they would withdraw from the Mann Cup series if the remainder of the series was not moved indoors.

The lacrosse body, after all-day and all-night meetings, replied that the fourth game must be played tonight in the outdoor Miller Bowl if weather conditions are favorable.

If conditions are not, another postponement will be necessary. But the CLA made a major concession when it was ruled that, if a postponement is necessary, the series will be transferred to the indoor Civic Arena.

The CLA threatened the Irish with suspension if the team refused to play outdoors tonight, weather permitting.

Officials of Peterborough Trailermen, who lead the best-of-seven series 2-1, have arranged to move games scheduled for Friday, Saturday and Monday nights to the arena if rain prevents them from being played in the 3,000-seat bowl. The arena seats 2,000.

But the arena won't be available tonight.

Russians Wire Pole for Sound

LONDON (AP) — The Russians said Wednesday they have installed a microphone at the North Pole.

Moscow radio in making the claim boasted "we are the first country in the world to do so."

There was no explanation why.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (UP)—The Missouri penitentiary roared with gunfire and flame last night as incorrigible convicts broke loose from solitary confinement and set other inmates free to stage a mass riot.

At least three convicts were reported shot to death and 15 others wounded as hastily summoned highway patrolmen and augmented guard units poured a steady fusillade of lead into the flame-lit prison yard. More than 300 convicts roamed the area.

The patrolmen and guards were under orders from Gov. Phil M. Donnelly to "shoot to kill."

Tower lights were turned out while officers fired into a yard lit only by flickering flames of at least four buildings set afire by the rioting inmates.

A light wind wafted sparks from the burning structures toward adjacent residences. Firemen waited at the prison entrance for the gun battle to end.

Break feared

A huge crowd of spectators was pushed back in case of a mass surge over the prison walls.

Judge Sam Blair, who had sentenced many of the prisoners, walked into the prison yard during a lull in the firing to try to reason with the rioters.

When he emerged a few minutes later, however, he reported he "wasn't able to do much."

Prison authorities and Gov. Donnelly were unable immediately to establish the cause of the violent flareup which started shortly after dark.

GUARD RESCUED

One guard, Oscar Carrington, who had been locked in a cell block, by the rioters, was rescued by inside-the-wall guards. He had been shot in the foot and cut by flying glass.

He reported the centre prison yard and nearby buildings were a shambles. He said another guard, Henry C. Adkins, still was locked inside.

The rioting convicts had set fire to a theatre, chapel, twin factory and cleaning plant. The fires died down momentarily as the shouting, cursing men set up a bedlam in the yard.

The penitentiary has a population of 3,287 convicts. It was believed many of the prisoners milling in the yard were not part of the rioting mob.

Bride Will Never Forgive or Forget 'Narrow Prejudice'

Slim Beauty Blames Few, Not Whole of Canada

BY FRED WILMOT

Special Colonist Correspondent

KINGSTON, Jamaica—Dorothy Holtz Hewitt, the slim beauty who stirred up an international incident at Shawnigan Lake School, will "never forgive or forget" the "narrow prejudice" of the headmaster and governors of the school who spoiled her wedding and exposed her to shame 5,000 miles from home.

But she graciously absolves Canadians as a whole.

Mrs. Hewitt pinned down the bias to "small, narrow-minded hypocrites" whose intolerance forced her to flee the ingrained community life of the school.

Responsible for the entire matter, she said, were "a small section of the people on Vancouver Island, not the whole of Canada."

Jamaica's 130-year-old newspaper, The Gleaner, headlined what they termed the "insult."

And the resolution passed by the Jamaica House of Representatives deplored the treatment meted out to the young model was front-page news, also.

PUBLIC HOT

The Jamaican public is sizzling.

Dorothy is a typical product of the blood mixture in the tropics. Her father's ancestry is Jewish, French, colored and German, while her mother is Jewish, French and colored.

The typical bulk of the middle class in Jamaica is identifiable only as "West Indian." Jamaicans cannot understand singling out one blood strain contrary to the general pattern here, where color is second to personal accomplishments and social position.

Colored people are found in all levels of the social scale, in high positions of government, ministers of state, the legal profession and business world.

Jamaica's cabinet is all shades from near-white Chief Minister Butamante in black Labor Minister Jehodia McPherson.

NOT ASHAMED

The color problem ("blood taint") is so insignificant that blue-eyed, curly-haired Jamaicans with black great-grandmothers still call themselves colored without shame and take great exception to deprecating terms.

Death Ruled Suicide

WHITE ROCK, B.C. (CP)—A coroner's jury Wednesday night decided that Mrs. Daisy E. Loughnan met her death from self-inflicted wounds, but mystery still surrounds the manner in which she took her life.

The body of the 65-year-old woman was found by her son, Brian, of Victoria, lying on the floor of her small cottage here August 18.

Two pieces of evidence played a major role in forming the jury's verdict.

SUICIDE NOTE

One was a suicide note written some days before and the other a pair of brown shoes containing heavy wooden shoe trees.

Both shoes and trees were bloodstained and coated with sand. One of the trees was also coated with blood to which hair was stuck.

Actual cause of death was the hemorrhaging of an artery in the head with a bone fracture a secondary cause.

Dr. Lewis Herberts of New Westminster, who performed the autopsy, testified that Mrs. Loughnan could have smashed her face and head against the two objects, or struck herself with them.

City Widow
Wins Damages

SASKATOON (CP)—A Court of Queen's Bench Jury Wednesday found the University of Saskatchewan liable for the death two years ago of Roland Taylor of Victoria who accidentally fell down an empty elevator shaft at the university while being taken on a tour by a faculty member.

The jury awarded general damages of $26,400 to the widow, Mrs. Shirley Taylor, and set special damages at $200.

Once-Popular Master Now Friendless at School

BY ALEC MERRIMAN

John Michael Hewitt, luckless husband of a Jamaican beauty, is a virtual outcast among the masters and students at Shawnigan Lake School where he teaches. The Daily Colonist learned yesterday.

Until he married Dorothy Holtz, daughter of Jamaica's accountant-general, Mr. Hewitt, it is reported, was one of the school's most popular masters.

Now he is friendly at the school and spends his evenings alone in the cottage he was to share with his bride. She returned to Jamaica last week after only four days of married life and said she was given five days' notice to leave the school "before the boys come and see a colored person here."

Her story has now boiled into an international incident with the Jamaican government protesting to the Canadian government over the insult.

At the school yesterday it was quite evident that the 130 boys and the school-masters are solidly and stolidly behind headmaster G. P. Kaye and the school board of governors.

"The prestige of the school will win out," was a common heard from several.

No one would comment on the actual incident, but several indicated they knew the details and that the whole story has not yet been told, and probably never would be.

One went so far as to say that Mrs. Holtz Hewitt had not told the whole truth in her statements. Mr. Hewitt, he said, had told only half of the truth.

"If he was to tell the whole story, it would shed a different light on the matter," this speaker added.

Another said Mr. Hewitt should go back to Jamaica immediately "where he undoubtedly would get a very fine job."

He added that "Hewitt was a very valuable man at the Shawnigan school."

It is obvious the schoolboys and masters are not in favor of Mrs. Hewitt living on the school grounds.

Some urged that Mr. Hewitt tell the whole story and clear up "all this poppycock."

When Dorothy Holtz arrived at the school to marry Mr. Hewitt she was entertained at supper parties at the homes of the masters. "We had great admiration for her then," said one of the masters yesterday.

Yet the idea of a mixed marriage was looked upon unfavorably by everyone. The Daily Colonist talked with all the school.

From Jamaica Mrs. Hewitt said the trouble started when she met the headmaster's wife, Mrs. Kaye.

No difficulty arose when the headmaster met her on arrival at the school, she said, but his wife, who was not present then, met her the following day.

"Then the trouble started," Mrs. Hewitt said.

Her mother, Mrs. Holtz, said: "It was a most inhuman way that anyone could have been treated. Surely the headmaster, his wife and children should have realized, how my child, alone over there, must have felt at such cruel and wicked treatment.

"People like these will come out to Jamaica and pretend to be nice, but the minute they are in their own country they talk about color and say because you are colored you cannot mix with them."

Mr. Hewitt had left the school in his car when this reporter visited; but he spoke to The Daily Colonist later by telephone.

Headmaster Kaye was courteous, but refused to discuss the incident, since the board of governors has issued a statement that "to comment further on the various statements attributed to Mr. and Mrs. Hewitt would only add bitterness to an already regrettable misunderstanding."

It would now appear that the incident started when headmaster Kaye gave the young couple a talk about the dangers of mixed marriages. Some of his advice apparently was misconstrued.

But it is believed that this is only part of the trouble. There is still another side to the matter. The Daily Colonist was accused on every hand.

There is a possibility of the marriage being annulled.

But Mr. Hewitt emphatically denies he would consider this course of action. He pledged all his savings in furnishing a house and buying a car for his bride and could not afford to give up his job to join her in Jamaica.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

A HOCKEY player called Pete Durham won't report to his Victoria job because he would rather stay in New Westminster and shoot ducks.

New Westminster traded him to Victoria, but he refuses to check in at the Cougars' training camp.

How would it be if we hired a wildlife officer at the Memorial Arena, and set up quarters for a resident flock of mallards in the compressor room?

They would be prime Mainland ducks—none of these decadent Island birds. Just to make Mainland hockey players feel at home, we could have the ducks wear New Westminster sweaters.

There is a picture for the cover of Rod and Gun magazine: a flight of Mainland mallards, silhouetted against the scoreboard, winging their way toward the Victoria goal as old Pete and his friends blaze away at them from the penalty box.

Some time ago a prairie woman holidaying in Victoria took a notion to send her husband a flask of sea water. (Bill Kersey swears this is true).

The lady went down to Gonzales Bay, dipped a flask in a wave and filled it to the brim.

"Excuse me, madam," said a man standing by, "I saw you filling that jar, and my curiosity got the better of me. What are you going to do with that sea water?"

"I'm going to send it to my husband in Saskatchewan," she said. "He has never seen the ocean, and I figured this would be the next best thing."

The man wagged a warning finger. "That's a very nice thought," he observed, "but you don't want to fill it so full. When the tide comes up, it'll burst the lid off that jar and you'll have water all over the place."

Following the man's advice, the lady poured off a half pint and mailed her husband a jar of Pacific brine fully protected against tidal action.

Fowl play: Bert Pritchett, cold storage foreman, deceived a number of people by dyeing white bantam chickens red and showing them at fairs under the label of "Sacred Red Silkies from Red China."

Several fair-goers took him seriously. At Saanichton, Bert heard one man say solemnly to his wife: "I told you those Commies were smart, didn't I?"

A couple of days ago, Bert received a letter addressed to "Comrade Pritchett."

At Saltair, where Bert also showed the tinted birds, a man tried to impress his girl friend with his knowledge.

"I happen to know about those fowls," he said. "Actually, they aren't bred in China at all. They're bred in Tibet."

The Trend House on Richmond Road, once a public showplace, is now the private home of Mrs. Gwen Cash, writer. But many people have yet to learn this fact.

"I don't mind people staring through the windows at me as I cook my lonely chop," Mrs. Cash says. "But when they turn a car on my newly-seeded gravel, sink in it up to the axle, and drive away leaving a rut the size of a bathtub, it upsets me."

Mrs. Cash likes people, but she wants it known that her place is not a taxi stand or a parking lot.

Several people advance the theory that the locomotive whistle we hear from the northeast is caused by a real locomotive, not a ghost train. These people say the whistle comes from the CNR spur line which runs to the winery at Lake Hill.

However, their arguments fail to convince me. I still say the whistle comes from a ghost train.

Don't these people realise the potential value of a ghost train in tourist dollars? What are they trying to do—foul their own nests?

Los Angeles must be even bigger than I thought. A friend recently returned from Juneau reports seeing a large bull in a field near the Alaskan city. Painted on the bull's flank in huge letters were the words:

Columbia Run

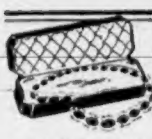

May Be Smallest

THE DALLES, Ore. (UPI)—The smallest Columbia River salmon run in a quarter of a century may be recorded after the fall run is completed, the Oregon state fish commission said Wednesday.

Harris Smith, commission auditor, said the run so far this year is well below that of 1953, which was the smallest of record at Bonneville Dam. Preliminary estimates indicate the run may be about 25 per cent below average.

Some observers believed construction of McNary Dam may have had some effect on the parent run four years ago, but Smith declined to attribute the smaller run to any definite factor.

Nick's face was expressionless. In an even tone, he said: "You're a fool, Bond. Sandra was interested in only one thing—your money. She loved any man who'd spend money on her. She was a gold-digger, a liar, a thief."

"Why you—?" Bond threw himself toward LaMonte. The two cops caught him and pulled him back. They pushed him onto the couch.

"They're all acting crazy," remarked one of the cops. "Maybe we'd better run 'em down to the station and let 'em cool off."

"No one is acting crazy except you and Bond," LaMonte pointed out coolly. "As I explained in the beginning, he has been ill. He's young and he was infatuated with Sandra Farwell. Hearing that she was dead has been quite a shock to him."

"Maybe he's right," the cop growled. "Maybe you killed her."

"I had every right to," Nick retorted. "She lied to me and spent my money. She two-timed me with that idiot of a kid—and then stole from my safe a necklace worth at least $150,000."

He smiled slightly. "She deserved what she got—but I didn't do it."

"How'd she get in your car?" the cop demanded.

"I don't know. It was stolen last Saturday night. I haven't seen it since."

"Was she here then?"

"Yes, she was a hostess and was on duty until quite late."

"Did you see her leave?"

"No."

"That's a lie!" Bond cried. "I was here, playing your crooked wheel. She tried to warn me, told me it was wired so the house always won, and you came and made her go away. I saw you go outside with her. Where'd you take her? Is that when you killed her?"

"You were drunk!" Nick snapped. "I walked her to the door and left her. That was the last time I saw her. I don't know where she went."

"That's why I questioned you earlier today, Bond. I wondered what had happened to her."

Garden Notes

Prepare Shrubs Before Moving

BY M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

If you are planning on moving any of your shrubs or small trees this fall, it is a good idea to give them a conditioning treatment about now, in order to bring them into the best possible shape to stand up under the shock of their uprooting and replanting.

One thing you can do which will make a big difference in their ability to survive a transplanting is to nip off all the straggling tips of the root system. The way you do this is to use a very sharp spade—use a file on your garden spade to put a good edge on it—and thrust it straight down, making a circle around the shrub about the diameter of the ball of soil you propose to take along with the plant.

EFFICIENT SYSTEM
This will cut off the root tips, forcing the roots into putting forth a lot of small feeding roots, making a compact and efficient root system. This, in turn, makes the shrub or tree a lot easier to transplant successfully. The long, straggling roots would only be lost and torn in the move anyway, and their loss would have to be made good while the plant was in a state of shock.

This is the method adopted by good nurserymen everywhere. They transplant or root-prune their whole stock of shrubs and small trees every year, conditioning them to withstand the shock of their move when sold. That is why it seldom pays to dig up and transplant a silver birch or a dogwood from the wild.

TREES, SHRUBS
Growing in natural conditions, a birch in particular makes a long tap root which is almost invariably damaged seriously in any move, while the nursery-grown trees, with their annual transplantings and their small, compact root systems, will undergo a move without turning a hair. A lot of the small evergreen shrubs used for foundation planting around the house require this pre-conditioning treatment, too.

In a nursery, all this moving and transplanting has to be done by hand—nobody has ever figured out a way to transplant a tree mechanically. Hand labor, especially highly-trained specialist labor, costs money, hence you must expect to pay a fair price for a tree or shrub from a reliable nursery. It's worth it, though. Better $3 for a live tree than $150 for a dead one.

SPECIAL SOIL
In addition to cutting a circle around any shrub you propose to move this fall, it is a good idea to collect and condition some special soil to use for filling in around the plant. Any good, rich topsoil will do to start with, although the kind you get from rotted stacks of turf is best. Get it under cover, or at least cover it up with an old tarpaulin so it will have a chance to dry out a bit. It is almost impossible to work wet, sticky, lumpy soil into intimate contact with the roots of a newly-planted shrub or tree.

If the fill-in soil is heavy clay, it should be mixed with coarse sand and peat moss until it becomes loose and friable. If it is a sandy loam, add peat moss without the sand, and in both cases it is a good idea to mix in about a quarter of a cupful of FTE (fritted trace elements) to guard against a shortage of essential minerals in the soil.

"You say she stole a necklace worth $150,000?" the cop asked. "At least that," LaMonte emphasized.

"Who's got it now?"

"I have," I said.

"Where'd you get it?"

"I found it in the Caddy when I repossessed it."

"Let's have a look at it."

"I left it in my car. It's parked toward the door. The cop caught my arm. He spun me around."

"No you don't!" he growled. "Nobody's leaving this room. Pete, you go out to Smallwood's car and get the jewelry. Which car is it?"

"It's a black roadster, parked in the driveway," I said. "A friend of mine—a young lady—is in it. She'll give the jewel case to you."

"Bring her in, too," the first cop ordered. "Maybe she knows something."

"She knows nothing," I protested. "You have no right—"

"It won't hurt to ask her a couple of questions," the cop retorted. "She might even be able to alibi you, Smallwood."

The cop named Pete went out. During the five minutes he was gone everybody gloved suspiciously at everybody else.

When Pete returned with Hollis he had her arm gripped in one hand and the black leather case in the other. She had evidently resisted spiritedly, for his face was red and hers was a perfect picture of outraged femininity.

When he released her she tried to slap his face. With a grin he pushed her into the room, then shielded his eyes with an arm.

"Fought like a little cat," he told the other cop. "Didn't want to give 'em to me."

"You—you—" Hollis sputtered. Her green eyes flashed. "What is the meaning of this?" she demanded, stamping her foot. "I want an explanation, or I'm going to—"

She saw Bond. "Oh, Jack! What have they done to you?" She ran to him and touched his face. "Oh, you poor thing! You're beasty, nothing but beasty!"

"Shut up, Hollis," Jack said tersely.

"I won't shut up! He didn't have to beat you. Even if you did kill her, they didn't have to."

"Hollis!" Bond screamed. The redhead clapped a hand to her mouth. "I'm sorry," she whispered. "Oh, Jack—I'm sorry!"

Frenzied Frosh Learn Fate; Ghastly Doomsday Garb Set

BY SHEILA HARDIE

Victoria College Reporter

Victorians are warned to be on the look out for anxious, excited college freshmen who were given some startling news yesterday by Students' President Don Cox, and now are muttering "Friday is Doomsday!"

A good reason for their worried faces is the regulation frosh outfits which must be worn on Friday.

Freshettes will be wearing frosh hats; pigtail ties with blue or gold ribbons; a sack or pillowcase with a hole cut for the head, reaching to two inches above her knees; underneath, a man's shirt; a man's tie hanging outside; a man's shoe on the right foot with a stocking held at her knee by a blue and gold garter; and on the left foot, a man's sock and a pump.

On her back she must wear a large card with her name, address, phone number, nickname and marital status.

If she smokes at all she must smoke a pipe; and to add a little indignity she must carry a doll or a teddy bear.

The last straw is that the right side of her face must be made up heavily and the left side not at all, while a 1/4-inch black line right down the middle is imperative.

The well-dressed freshman must also wear a hat and carry a card. However, his face will be heavily made up all over and covered with a veil which will hang modestly from the hat.

His hair will be parted in the middle and slicked down, while an earring must dangle daintily from his left ear.

As to elemental garb, the latest mode for him is a colorful work shirt, topped by a white wing collar, bow tie and a long bead necklace, short pants, a rubber gumboot on the right foot, and on the left foot a bedroom slipper, with a nylon stocking to his knee where there will be a blue and gold garter. He will be smoking a cigar and dragging his toy.

Last night the frosh attended the riotous Howdy Hop in the auditorium, and are all looking forward to the 8 p.m. Friday parade, when they will pull a tallyho-full of indolent sophomores down Douglas Street to the Crystal Garden and the frosh dance.

LONDON (Reuters) — An assistant steward from the Polish ship Batory walked into a London police station early yesterday and accused a potential asylum-seeker of sexual assault.

Jet Escape Like Jumping Off High Table

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, Man. (CP)—An Ontario flying instructor who parachuted to safety along with a NATO student from a stricken jet trainer Wednesday says the escape was no harder than jumping off a high table.

FO Daniel Grummett, 31, of Thornbury, Ont., and Pte. R. Sharer of Oslo, Norway, were at 8,500 feet on a routine training flight when their T-33 Silver Star went out of control.

After a futile struggle to right the craft, they bailed out. The student jumped first. Grummett pressed his seat ejector at 7,000 feet.

"It worked 100 per cent," he said. "You're out before you know it."

Insecticide Murderess Jailed for Life

MAINZ, Germany (AP)—Christa Lehmann, the 31-year-old widow from Worms who popularized use of a bug poison for suicides, was convicted Wednesday of murdering three persons with the poison. The court gave her the maximum sentence—life imprisonment.

She was arrested last February at the graveside of Anni Hamann, her best friend and last victim. Later Christa confessed to killing her husband and her father-in-law.

The arrest and resulting publicity touched off a wave of West German suicides with the bug poison. Sales since have been restricted.

She displayed no emotion as the court gave her a life sentence on each of the murder charges. Capital punishment has been abolished in West Germany.

Minister Pleased Over Court Tests Of New Labor Act

Two recent court decisions have strengthened the position of the Labor Relations Board and proved the soundness of the new Labor Relations Act, according to Labor Minister Lyle Wicks.

Mr. Wicks told The Daily Colonist he was "very pleased" that the two court decisions have the LRB certification of the new Labor Relations Act.

One was an appeal by the R.C. Electric Railway Co. against certification of Local 213, International Brotherhood of Electric Workers (gas division). The company had issued a writ to quash the LRB certification.

The appeal was dismissed recently by the Supreme Court in Vancouver. The BCE allegedly opposed the union on the grounds that it was Red-dominated.

MAJORITY RULES
"This very definitely strengthens the position of the Labor Relations Board," Mr. Wicks said. "I'm not pulling for any one union but the majority of the workers wanted the IBEW and the majority rules."

Mr. Wicks added that "many of us may be sentimentally opposed to an alien philosophy but you can't mix sentiment with law. This was a straight question of law."

The other case referred to by the labor minister was that of the six packing houses of Canadian main.

Youth Flooding Back

Red China Winning War of Propaganda

SINGAPORE—Red Chinese propaganda is handing a stinging defeat to the best efforts of the West in the battle for the minds of young southeast Asians.

The sons and daughters of expatriate Chinese families in the area—most of whom have never been to China—are still flooding back to China at the rate of 1,500 a month, as they have been doing for almost a year. Each pushes a bicycle and has on his lips the same slogan: "The new China needs us."

Communist propagandists are making capital in every corner of southeast Asia with appeals for "patriotism to the motherland."

Promises of entry into "free" universities and colleges constitute the most attractive bait held out by the Reds. Promises of ultimate high positions in the "new China" and of better living conditions are others.

SPEAK SCORNFULLY
The back-to-China disciples (average age 25) speak scornfully of capitalist exploitation in the Far East. But they are not against a little private enterprise themselves; that's why 90 per cent take bicycles into the promised land.

In Singapore a bicycle costs $50. In Red China, where bicycles are considered as necessary as chopsticks, it can be sold for four or five times that price on an eager market.

Authorities believe many of the bicycles eventually reach the Red Chinese army, but since the machines are not regarded as essential war material there is no ban on their export.

Hundreds of undecided young Chinese hastily made up their minds to get out of Singapore when conscription was introduced. Most went without visas, and under new immigration laws that means they took a one-way trip.

POTENTIAL AGITATORS
Those born in Singapore who do secure visas could normally re-enter the colony. But as potential agitators they would face possible arrest under emergency regulations.

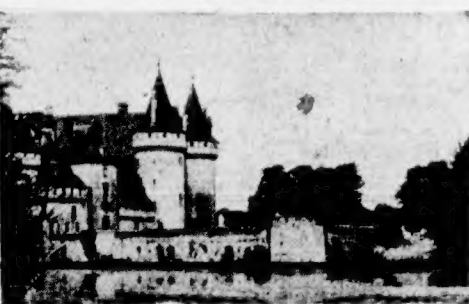

Families are being split by the China-wards trek. Harassed parents frequently drag their children off outward bound ships by force—in some cases only minutes before sailing time.

Others discover too late what has become of their sons and daughters.

One father flew to Hong Kong to intercept his daughter at the border, but she turned a deaf ear to his pleas to return home.

No Gold Found, Castle for Sale

This beautiful and historic French castle, the chateau of Sully-sur-Loire, near Paris, went on the public auction block to pay a debt incurred by its owner, the Marchioness of Beaussey. She incurred the debt in a vain effort to locate a "family treasure," which belonged to her famed ancestor, the Duke of Sully, finance minister to Henri IV. The duke is reputed to have left a treasure-pot of gold coins which he minted himself. The court ordered the castle sold to satisfy the claims of a contractor hired to search for the "pot of gold."—(Central Press Canadian.)

Pyramid-Builders Take Over London

LONDON (Nana)—Britain's capital has overnight become a top-down. The founder enlists two "members," who have to find two more each. When there are eight members at the foot of the pyramid, they pay 50 cents each to the founder. He in turn pays the $2 to the founder of his pyramid.

Eventually every person in a pyramid moves to the top of a gigantic pyramid and collects nodules of money—so the theory goes.

A statistician has worked out that to keep two or three original pyramids going would need London's entire 8,000,000 population in a week.

Theatrical people appear to form the hard core of pyramid-builders. The get-rich-quick idea is sweeping backstage dressing-rooms, show people's apartments and theatrical clubs here.

Many theatrical personalities have been throwing untold "pyramid parties" to help keep the chain going.

Capital Levy to Boot

'High-Income' Norwegians Savagely Taxed

OSLO—American taxpayers who groan under what they think is a heavy load should consider the fate of the poor Norwegian in the same fix.

Anyone earning more than $5,000 a year here is considered to be in the upper income brackets. And the "high-income" groups are savagely taxed.

The income tax bite grows progressively sharper in the upper regions of the scale, but a capital levy is thrown in to make life more interesting.

If you have $150,000 in capital, the levy will skim off $2,700—quite a fair slice when you consider that the process is repeated every year.

But not many Norwegians are bothered by the levy—only a handful have capital approaching anything like $150,000.

In the "high-income" group taxation is rigorous. A married man with two children who earns $7,000 a year pays $1,500 to the inland revenue department every year.

But few people earn $7,000 a year. Money is evenly distributed in Norway, with few rich and no poor. Prime Minister Oscar Torp has to make do with $4,500 a year; a high court judge must maintain the dignity of the law on $3,000, while a member of parliament gets $1,800 a year for his pains.

What does a Norwegian get for his tax money? Education at all levels is free. There is no such thing as expensive boarding schools that deal out a superior form of learning denied to the ordinary young Viking.

In fact, such boarding schools as exist are really only for difficult children, or the children of diplomats, Norwegians who have been to a boarding school like to keep this piece of their personal history dark!

There is a national health insurance scheme, which has been working smoothly for about 30 years. This is compulsory for all wage-earners below a certain income, and voluntary for others.

Children get free breakfast at all urban schools. Holiday camps are arranged for all school children whose parents cannot afford vacations.

Shawnigan's Reply

THE statement issued by the board of governors of Shawnigan Lake School, published in full in yesterday's Colonist, has been interpreted in some quarters as a denial that the Jamaican wife of Mr. J. M. Hewitt was asked to leave the school property because of her racial antecedents. Scrutiny of the precise wording of the statement fails to disclose any such denial. Obviously it was carefully prepared, and nothing should be read into it which is not there.

The statement says that at no time did the headmaster tell Miss Holtz or Mr. Hewitt that she must leave the school "before the boys come back and see a colored person here" and adds "or that she was 'given five days to get out'." It goes on to say that at all times Miss Holtz was treated with the utmost personal courtesy by the headmaster and members of the school staff, which has never been disputed. The statement—and it can be accepted only for what it contains—does not refute the allegation that the young Jamaican bride of a teacher was asked to leave, and that the request was on racial grounds. The crucial question therefore remains unanswered.

It is an unfortunate document generally, with a singularly tactless and unfeeling preface: "The governors of Shawnigan Lake School regret the publicity that has attended the marriage..."

No word of sorrow or apology here for the humiliation of the young couple or for the indignity to the people of the British West Indies; merely regret that the public has become aware of an incident which the board, as subsequent passages of the statement show, feels should be kept private. It seems to have escaped the perception of the governors that publicity or absence of it has no bearing whatever on the principle involved. Nor was the formal and public protest to the Canadian government by the Jamaica House of Representatives actuated by the publicity which the incident received in this province.

However much the governors' sensibilities may have been wounded by the unwelcome attention which this affair has attracted, it has by the action of the Jamaica legislature become a public issue and an international one. If there has been "a regrettable misunderstanding," as the board's statement avers, an explanation must be made to the people of Jamaica through diplomatic channels. In the meantime the somewhat condescending tone of the board's announcement does little to assuage hurt feelings and public indignation. Many people, in fact, are likely to regard it as merely making matters worse.

The Treaty Line-Up

NO peace treaties have been signed to close out the Second World War but it cannot be said that the treaty makers have been idle. No fewer than 34 international agreements have been signed in recent years, all but three of them in the postwar period. Two of these three, mutual defense pacts signed during the war between Britain and France respectively and Soviet Russia, although of a paper validity of 20 years, can be ruled out of court by the subsequent treaty line-ups of the nations. The other, a Soviet-Czechoslovak wartime pact, is of indefinite duration.

Except for a Soviet-Finnish pact due to expire in four years' time, the multitude of postwar treaties depict vividly the development of the cold war. All of them are of a defensive nature. None of them crosses the Soviet-West dividing line. Sixteen of them are interlocking agreements between the Soviet Union and or members of the Soviet satellite confederacy, and between Russia and China. The other 14 are international commitments entered into for varying periods by the free nations without the Soviet world. India alone of major countries is strictly neutral, participant in none of these agreements.

Best known of course are the NATO, SEATO and ANZUS pacts which link variously the Commonwealth nations, the United States, France and other components of the western alliance. Other defensive agreements have been signed for example between the United Kingdom and Italy, Turkey and Pakistan, the U.S. and Japan, and the Balkan pact of Yugoslavia, Greece and Turkey. For their part all of the Soviet Union's treaties, limitless in time, tighten the Soviet sphere into a cohesive whole. This is clearly shown by a projection map of the world as drawn by the postwar treaty makers. The Soviet grouping forms one solid physical entity, whereas the non-Soviet pacts are scattered round and about the perimeter of Soviet-dominated territory. Except for tiny and weak Albania the Soviet world is of a piece, reachable at all points by land, a position not accidental and one of a strength which adds to the menace of Soviet foreign policy.

Some Heirloom!

AS the new minister of defense, Mr. Ralph Campney would find heir to many a knotty problem, difficulties not of his making but bequeathed by his predecessor. One of them would be that perpetual headache—how to get more men into the armed services, especially the reserve army. The Toronto weekly Saturday Night puts a finger on another, which it suggests might be embarrassing to the new defense minister. Well it might.

According to the Toronto journal Mr. Campney has a spare army right close at hand—but not in uniform. It quotes the strength at last count of the civilian employees of the defense department as 45,703 persons—almost half as many individuals as were then listed in the regular armed forces. One has been told that for varying countries armies in the field need anywhere from three to a dozen men in rear echelons to keep one man in the firing line—but on the Canadian home front this two-to-one defense department ratio seems inordinate.

What do they all do, this multitude of civil service defenders? Presumably this is one of the things the new defense minister will endeavor to find out. The taxpayer public which foots the bill for the defense budget undoubtedly would be interested too, and probably echo the view of Saturday Night concerning the inheritance that has come the way of Mr. Campney, to wit: that there is no reason why he should keep it as a family heirloom. Not such a large-sized departmental army anyway.

Interpreting the News

Frenchman Superb Gambler?

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Staff Writer

PIERRE Mendes-France will have proved himself a superb gambler, playing for the highest stakes, if he gets half of what he wants before agreeing to a rearmament.

At the moment it is not clear whether the French premier is gambling to make a deal close to his own terms or is really trying to block German rearmament.

This week he laid down French conditions for letting Germany have guns again. If these conditions are agreed to by the Allies, he said, his countrymen may approve. He didn't say they will.

He gets a chance to play his cards next Tuesday in London at a meeting with U.S. State Secretary Dulles, Britain's Foreign Minister Eden, and the representatives of six other Allies, including Germany.

The United States and Britain, convinced Germany must be rearmament fast and made part of the defense against Russia, thought it could be done in a way that would not permit Germany to become a menace to her neighbors again.

This was through a single European army, called the European Defense Community. In the EDC army soldiers of West Germany, France, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg would have served side-by-side under a unified command chosen from among their own officers. None of the EDC's members would any longer have had its own national army.

The French didn't want to give up their own army. They were afraid of a rearmament Germany without more safeguards. The French Assembly, after stalling for two years, voted to shelve the EDC.

Mendes-France, who put up no fight for the EDC, may have been gambling that the United States, Britain and the other Allies, desperately anxious to get Germany into the defense picture, would start yielding to French terms for rearmament Germany once the EDC was killed.

Mendes-France also knew the Allies, anxious as they were to get Germany rearmament, could hardly afford to lose French support.

This week Mendes-France made a speech, outlining the conditions under which he thinks France may approve getting into an alliance with rearmament Germany.

He wants British participation "to the greatest degree" in any defense organization that includes Germany.

And he wants the members of that organization to set up a council of some kind which will: (a) Have power to limit the armaments of all the members; and, (b) Be free to go into the member countries on inspection trips to be sure there's no cheating.

And I'll be in Scotland afore ye...
(Incident during the Giles family's progress along the road to the Highlands.)

Thinking Aloud Gerald Waring

of shoes—and ships—and wailing wax—of cabbages and kings

By TOM TAYLOR

I SUPPOSE the padre himself heard about it but anyway a lady with an accent like my own suggests that I should sort of tick him off. I don't know that I want to add to Mr. Hill's worries.

His mailbag is full of them. And anyway maybe next week I shall be after him for a favor.

You know his lapse, however. Writing last Sunday day about the Battle of Britain he forgot himself and said of "The Few" that they "set old England on the way to being mistress of the air as she once had been mistress of the sea."

Most injudicious, as the padre would ruefully recognize on Sunday morning. For he knows well that bombs fell north of the Tweed too, and in his naval guise I believe I've heard him humming "Rule Britannia."

He slipped, that was all.

But you know, this business of credits is a delicate one; it doesn't do to press it home too hard.

For instance, take the Shamrocks, now fighting a different kind of battle in Peterborough. If they come home with the cup—rather a slender hope, unfortunately—they'll have to share the honors with Vancouver, which supplied them with three play-off players. Incidentally I doubt that many of the Shamrocks are Irish. And there's a football team at Notre Dame, Indiana, called the "Irish," but judging by the names on its line-ups I should think none of them ever saw a shamrock.

Who gets what kudos—it's all mixed up, you see.

The Battle of Britain is no exception. The homelands of these heroic sky pilots—Padre Hill's term by the way, and a good one—make up a nice-sized gazetteer.

Among the recognized aces, for example, although in a true sense all these boys were aces, there is Adolph (Sailor) Malan, of South Africa, who shot down more enemy planes than any other fighter pilot. There is Brendan (Paddy) Finucane, an Irishman; A. C. Deere, of New Zealand; John A. Kent, an RAF Canadian; H. M. Stephen, a Scot.

The great Douglas Bader led a squadron composed mainly of Canadians, and although he did not fight in the Battle of Britain how in a discussion of this kind can one leave out the name of the Malta ace, George (Buz) Beurling, of Canada.

And collectively such squadrons as the Czechs and Polish formations also put up a tremendous show.

But, of necessity, England supplied most of the pilots. The other day Mr. St. Laurent reminded his fellow citizens of Quebec that the majority of Canadians were English-speaking.

In the same way one must remember that England holds the most of the English-speaking members of the Commonwealth. Population counts.

Thus among the Immortals of "The Few" there are also these sparkling names: Roland Tuck, Harry Broadhurst, M. N. Crossley, Mungo Park, Bader and others, Englishmen all.

Each airman mentioned above, these sky pilots from different lands, accounted for from 15 to 35 enemy aircraft off his own bat.

So, perhaps it would be diplomatic to forget about the credits. Every man jack in the Battle of Britain deserves a doffed cap.

Padre Hill would agree, I think. And so I'm sure would the lady with an accent like my own. After all the sky is all of a piece.

Reports from Ottawa

THE new British plan to expand the Brussels Treaty as the best solution to the problem of German rearmament is finding little support in Ottawa. It has not altered the opinion of our government that the only practical solution is to admit West Germany to full membership in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

That also is the opinion of the United States government, and so for the second time in little more than a fortnight Ottawa is aligned with Washington rather than with London on a matter of major importance. The first time was when Foreign Minister Pearson opposed British Foreign Secretary Eden's idea of tossing the problem into an eight-power conference from which some NATO members would be excluded.

The government did not consider it politic last week to confirm officially on the Brussels Treaty plan. But in this case silence does not mean approval—merely that Ottawa's opinion would only emphasize the differences which have arisen between Pearson and Eden on how to bring West Germany into our defense system.

Behind Ottawa's silence lies the opinion that NATO offers a simple and effective means of wrapping up the problem without the dangerously long delays which are feared to be inherent in the Eden proposal.

Aside from the superfluity of the Eden plan if Germany were admitted to NATO, the big objection here is that the Brussels Treaty suggestion would allow French politicians another breath. They could give the proposal the same treatment which kept the European Defense Community plan hanging fire for two years, and finally killed it.

In a speech Sept. 7 reviewing alternatives to EDC, Pearson asked rhetorically, "Can a different kind of EDC, with more limited supranational powers and a wider membership, take its place?"

He might well have been referring to Eden's idea when he replied, "Not without many months of negotiation and many more months of parliamentary discussions before ratification. But there may be no longer enough time for this."

In those "many months," any of a number of things could happen which would be less likely to happen if the Canadian-American plan for Germany—that is, complete sovereignty and NATO membership—were adopted.

Since the French Assembly rejected EDC, Chancellor Adenauer's pro-Western government at Bonn has been losing popular support. His prestige needs to be bolstered to keep him in office—and NATO membership could do that. For if his government were to fall, it could easily be replaced by one more amenable to Soviet blandishments.

The disunity and recriminations which would follow another experience like EDC might gravely weaken NATO, and even start it coming apart at the seams. For example, while American Secretary of State Dulles has promised that the U.S. will not retire into "narrow isolationism," he cannot prevent American isolationists from making such capital out of the disagreements of European politicians as to weaken American leadership of the Western bloc.

That is the reasoning behind Ottawa's plea to shilly-shally no longer with sugar-coating the pill to the taste of the French Assembly. The time for that is past. Now nothing less than the existence of NATO and the survival of freedom is at stake.

Walking to School

(From The Calgary Albertan)

IN the "good old days" children walked to school, usually a mile and often three or four miles, probably after doing a few farm chores. Sometimes it was a real hardship but usually they thrived on it.

In rural areas all across Canada the trend has been away from country schools and many children live five or 10 miles from the town or village school. But transportation has to be provided for them.

Last year the British Columbia department of education spent $2,186,000 on the school bus system. The new minister of education thought that that figure was far too high, so he issued a revised formula.

There's considerable political objection to his ruling. Part of it is justified. For instance, some children have to ride 20 or 30 miles on the bus after boarding it, and to walk two miles before that long bus ride would mean having to leave home at an ungodly hour in the morning. And to clog narrow roads with child pedestrians during the morning and evening rush hours is inviting trouble.

On the other hand the modern child is too reluctant to exert himself. If the little trouble-makers had to walk three miles to school and back every day perhaps they wouldn't feel so much like cutting up at night. The modern child is definitely spoiled in that respect.

But perhaps he shouldn't be blamed. If his dad can't go three blocks to the barber shop without getting out the family car, why should the child be expected to walk three miles to school?

Law-makers have strange kinks. The Quebec Liquor Commission has ruled that Montreal taverns may install television sets but may use them only for sports events.

Apparently Haw and gee don't go together in Spanish.

An industrial engineer has worked out a set of instructions to enable women to wash the dishes with as few motions as possible. But they don't seem to include drying the hands 15 times in order to answer the telephone, the door-bell, or Mabel yoo-hooing from next door.

A summer guest at a farmhouse pounded on the proprietor's desk and hollered: "This is the last straw! A big, smelly pig has been trying to force his way into my room." "Don't blame the pig," soothed the proprietor. "When you city folks ain't here, that's his room!"

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

EVERY store and every industry ought to have a couple of old cigar boxes and a dusty carton or two stuck up on an almost forgotten shelf somewhere, in which are stored the unlikely odds and ends no longer kept in stock, which customers are apt to come and ask for once every two years or so.

The trouble with modern merchandizing and modern industry is, that it is too tidy. Too efficient. Too smartly inventoried. If an article of merchandise isn't moving, they chuck it out. Nothing whatever is allowed to accumulate. The hardware stores held out for a long time. Fancy goods shops, those little notions shops largely patronized by the ladies in quest of a spool of thread or some bias tape, were pretty crowded and confused until lately. And for a time, the drug stores, when they abandoned their chaotic bottled primness, and went in for a sort of general bazaar business, gave some hope that at least one emporium in the block might provide a little mystery and romance to shopping.

But the hardware stores have gone supermarket. The little fancy goods shops have gone in for system and the bare inventory. The drug stores are slowly returning to the apothecary business, and while they haven't got quite back strictly to bottles they try their best to get all their merchandise into cellophane packages that look like bottles. You might still be able to get a bathing cap or a cup and saucer in a drug store, but they are likely to be done up in plastic cylinders.

Thus, when you go into a hardware store and ask for a larding needle, there isn't anybody in the place, not even the grey-headed ones, who knows what you mean.

"Go on," you urge. "Look in that old cigar box out there in the back, up on the shelf..."

But they haven't got even an old cigar box in there, up on the shelf.

When you ask the druggist for a tin box of arnica tooth soap he just stares.

"Haven't you got some old carton, down cellar, where you keep things that might have gone out, maybe 40 years?" you question anxiously.

He hasn't. Every foot of the cellar is full of the latest pharmaceuticals, delivered yesterday.

With the Classics

Bards of Passion and of Mirth,
Ye have left your souls on earth!
Have ye souls in heaven too,
Doubtless in regions new?
Yes, and those in heaven commune

With the spheres of sun and moon;

With the noise of fountains wondrous

And the parle of voices thunderous;

With the whisper of heaven's trees

And one another, in soft ease

Seated on Elysian lawns,

Browned by none but Dian's fawns;

Underneath large blue-bells tented,

Where the daisies are rose-scented,

And the rose herself has got Perfume which on earth is not.

Where the nightingale doth sing,

Not a senseless, tranced thing,

But divine, melodious truth,

Philosophic numbers smooth;

Tales and golden histories

Of heaven and its mysteries.

Thus ye live on high, and then

On the earth ye live again;

And the souls ye left behind you

Teach us, here, the way to find you.

Kinsmen's Folly

As an ex-Kinsman and one who used to be most active in the many charitable activities of that service club, may I say how I deplore the action of the Vic-Van Isle Kinsmen in sponsoring a rodeo.

It is a well-established fact that rodeos are horribly cruel.

Many of your readers, ranging from ex-cowboys to those associated with humane societies have most strongly criticized the action.

It has been intimated that the SPCA should step in and stop the rodeo being held. Unfortunately, the law of the land (to Canada's shame) allows rodeos.

Therefore the SPCA, no matter how vigilant, is powerless to prohibit this treatment of animals.

All the SPCA can do is to attempt to eliminate the cruel practices. It has its inspectors on the scene and if there is some most blatant act of cruelty committed, it can prosecute. Many such cases have been brought to the courts.

There is one force that can abolish rodeos, and that is aroused public opinion.

In England, and many European countries, rodeos are not allowed. Public opinion, backed by law, is what deters those who might wish to sponsor such needlessly cruel exhibitions in countries where people are more considerate of animals. It has been said that, in large measure, the degree of civilization of any people can be gauged by the way they treat dumb animals.

If, as now seems inevitable, the Victoria area is to have its first rodeo, let its enlightened citizens boycott the event. That will ensure that our first rodeo is our last.

Firmer Stand

I noted with considerable interest statements published in the Colonist and attributed to Mrs. R. D. Harvey when her resignation from the Women's Conservative Association of Greater Victoria was made public. Mrs. Harvey was quoted as saying that "long-time active workers regret this rebellion by people active in the party in Victoria for only a few years."

No member of the party would attempt to minimize the work and support of Mrs. Harvey, in Victoria and in our outside associations, but surely length of service does not necessarily make one infallible in one's opinion and judgment.

While not in Victoria, 30 years' active association with the party would class me as "long-time," I think, and I would say this, that to take a firm stand against encroachment upon the rights of the general membership is hardly "rebellion," and the word is grossly misused. Further, if we oldsters had taken a firm stand years ago our party would now be in a healthier state. That is my regret.

Drunkenness Plea

... If a man is seen staggering along the street he is arrested and charged with drunkenness. Yet that same drunkenness is accepted as a defense plea in cases of serious crime. "I was drunk and I didn't know what I was doing." It seems to plain common sense that such a defense should be ruled out entirely.

There is far too little discipline for the young these days, and the law has come to mean nothing to them. Let us have without delay stern measures and less foolish psychiatry.

Breaking Horses

The excellent persons who align the SPCA with the defenders rather than with the assailants of the rodeo reveal a pathetic ignorance of the subject upon which they pronounce so confidently. It is not altogether clear to just what extent they speak for the local membership as a whole.

It is no offense to be ignorant of the horse, in this modern mechanized age, where the horse is becoming almost exclusively a mere show-piece. But it is an offense to exhibit this ignorance and at the same time to dogmatize on this matter. Whatever such people may know about cruelty or about animals in general, it is perfectly clear that they know nothing about horses. It is impossible that they can ever have broken a horse to the saddle themselves.

The process of breaking in a range horse produces one of two effects. The first is only very occasionally seen; but it has been known for a wild horse to be so incapable of overcoming its original fear (which is the basic cause of its intractability) or so inherently and completely untamable of spirit that it has died of its frenzy rather than yield.

The second effect is the one usually seen. Handling and the increasing familiarity with human contact, result before very long in the impassive cowboy that will stand unattended for hours—provided you leave the bridle-reins trailing on the anything!

No animal of the first type could be repeatedly shipped around the country by train or truck, as the erodeo horses have to be. No horse of the second type would remain indefinitely in the condition of "an outlaw fresh from the range," as the rodeo dupes believe them to be. The "outlaw" habits have to be kept alive by artificial methods, and there are plenty of tricks in the trade.

Ripple (?) Rock

While Ripple Rock provides a very definite navigational hazard at Seymour Narrows, it is our Income Tax law which provides a very definite obstacle preventing its removal by private engineering firms. No contractor feels justified to risk grave accidents and financial losses unless the rewards are to be considerable. But if successful in such a contract as this, the government revenue officer would take a large and unpredictable share of the anticipated profit.

Between the periods (very brief) of tidal slack water at Ripple Rock, the dangers due to whirlpools will probably never be appreciably reduced and the name "Ripple" is a complete misnomer. But the minimum depth of water over Ripple Rock can certainly be improved so that most coastal shipping will be able at all tides to pass safely above the summit of this submarine hill.

If our government is capable of tackling the St. Lawrence deepsea ship canal it ought to be able to "polish off" the top of Ripple Rock with the greatest of ease.

Saanich Complex

The urge to kill any enterprise designed for the progress of Saanich seems to have reached a new high in recent times. The Gordon Head airport, Beaver Lake exhibition and race-track scheme and suggestions of rodeos seem to call for letters to the press and petitions. Prohibition appears to be riding high in our midst.

On Saturday last a by-election was held to fill a vacant seat on the Saanich council. As a reported turn-out of only six per cent of qualified voters were interested enough to get out and vote it might be pertinent to ask if the majority of Saanich residents are dominated by a destructive rather than a constructive psychology.

Correction

With reference to the article published in The Daily Colonist dated September 22, may I draw the following errors to your attention contained under the heading of "Polish Hero Happy as V.I. Interpreter."

After the meeting I informed your correspondent that my personal exploits had nothing to do with the subject-matter contained in my address, viz: "Poland and Her Navy."

I object most strenuously to the use of the title "Polish Hero" as this type of publicity does a great deal of personal harm and reacts unfavorably to the cause of a free Poland. A naval officer who performs his duties in no sense a hero, but rather women and children who fought for 61 days in barricaded Warsaw during the uprising; they have indeed earned the true title of heroes.

Again, your reporter has misinterpreted the text of my lecture by using the headline "Sailor 37 years, he's hated Russia longer." The analogy used by the speaker was applied to the similarity between the Tzarist regime and that of the Communists. I would like to point out that I have nothing against the Russian people themselves, as I still have many Russian friends in the Western world.

Stepping Stone

I see that another attempt to remove Ripple Rock is under way again. It is surely about time, after the many attempts at destruction, that we changed our views and tactics on this matter and in view of the possibility of a future dam site at the head of Butte Inlet (even in a few years' time) we should keep intact Ripple Rock as the very necessary stepping stone to the Mainland. Fourteen-foot and 1,150 feet are very short spans, especially as we have good useful bridge approaches for a motor truck road.

A PADRE IN PRINT

BY REV. WILLIAM HILLS

Human nature is still the best copy there is, and I see that a tempest in a teapot (in a boys' school, to be precise) has been kicked up at Shawnigan Lake.

The ugly cry of racial discrimination has been raised.

Actually, the squall of public opinion has been intensified by (1) the vocabulary of the headmaster; (2) the loquacity of the master concerned; and (3) the characteristic impetuosity of his bride.

The way to settle this problem in social relationships was not out of the West Indies via a Reuters dispatch but in the somewhat cooler and common-sense atmosphere of a Canadian living room.

In academic circles, the phrase "a colored person" in a statement of fact.

Indeed, I am a colored person. My skin is white.

However, outside the walls of Ivy, where people are accustomed to the mental discipline of dictionaries, such a phrase does carry a full-fledged intimation of racial prejudice.

People have been arguing the pros and cons of racial assimilation for a good many years. The controversy had its roots in a book published in 1854 by Gobineau under the title "The Inequality of Human Races."

This publication appeared at a time when the dominant peoples of Europe were busy extending their benevolent protection to "the lesser breeds without the law."

It attempted to provide biological reasons justifying the domination of "inferior" races by the "superior" ones. It defined culture as an essentially racial trait.

But as the world grew smaller by reason of the technological advancement in the means of transportation and communication, this comfortable theory of the "heron-volk" was challenged by social thinkers—chiefly Huxley and Boas—who declared that fundamentally peoples were alike, and that such existing differences as there geographical and cultural isolation of the less advanced races of the world. Christians, naturally, have been caught up in this grand debate and they have advanced the bounds of their charity (and I use the word in its best sense) as their social sense has been illuminated not only by the mind of Christ but also by the enlargement of their culture.

For example, my own congregation has no difficulty in singing the hymn: "In Christ there is no East or West," and the recent remarks of the Archbishop of Canterbury have reinforced their position in this respect.

The affair at Shawnigan Lake School should never have arisen as a question of racial miscegenation.

It is more a question of taste and appropriateness. Could a schoolmaster under those particular circumstances accord to his position as a mentor of youth the kind of effective influence his standing would demand?

The answer to that is obviously not mine or yours to give. It rests solely within the purview of those who are most concerned in the administration of this private school.

Elk Hunters Too Eager; Fined $200

NANAIMO—Two hunters who couldn't wait for the opening of Vancouver Island's first elk hunting season in nearly half a century were each fined $200 here yesterday.

The men are Robert Vansickle, Lantzville, and Albert Marriot, Victoria.

Frank Greenfield, Nanaimo district game warden, told the court 350 pounds of elk meat was found in Vansickle's home.

The game warden then went to Victoria to see Marriot, who led him to a meat cache in Sooke.

"For many years now the shooting of elk has been forbidden on the island," said Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts. "I believe you two men knew that."

Elk hunting, closed since 1906, is a bid to rebuild the island's once-plentiful herds, does not open until October 9 and will close October 13.

NANAIMO—A stained glass window has been given to St. Paul's Anglican Church by Mrs. Arthur Leighton in memory of her husband, prominent Nanaimo lawyer, who died last year.

The window will be placed over the altar. It will be dedicated October 3.

PORT ALBERNI—Sproat Lake Ratepayers' Association will ask for a reduced speed limit on the newly-surfaced Lakeshore Road.

At a recent meeting of the group it was reported that the surfacing project was nearly completed. Members felt the cold-mixed paving would soon deteriorate if speeds were not reduced.

Complaints were also registered against thoughtless pilots of speedboats. It was reported that fishermen have had their lines cut and small-boat occupants have had narrow escapes as some speedboat operators have ignored rules of courtesy on the lake.

Decision was made to promote the third annual regatta next year. The program will be arranged before the New Year. Additions to the swimming program are contemplated.

NANAIMO—Employees of Eureka Sawmills have donated $183 to the new Nanaimo health centre. The unsolicited contribution, from 42 men who donated $4.36 each, will go toward reducing the building fund deficit of $3,700.

Official opening of the health centre is scheduled for 8 p.m. today with Health Minister Eric Martin officiating.

The public is invited to inspect the building Friday from 2 to 4 and from 7 to 9 p.m.

Comox Offered City Water

COURTENAY—A move by Comox to put in a $200,000 water system of its own has forced Courtenay to end a long ban on supplying new water services outside the city limits.

Comox residents may now hook up to the Courtenay system if applications are approved by the village commissioners. Other residents may have water if approved by the city's water committee.

COURTENAY—Council rescinded its ban this week following reports that Comox would give first and second readings to a by-law to borrow $200,000 so the village could put in its own system. Installation of a water system at Comox would free the Courtenay service of 100 users.

This, coupled with the fact the rainy season is near at hand, prompted council to lift the ban it imposed when it was found the water lines to Comox and Royston were being used to capacity.

Comox, which now has an adequate supply source in a deep well within the village, intends to go ahead with its own scheme. Commissioners will give the loan by-law a third reading after it receives approval of the government. The by-law will then be placed before the villagers.

PORT ALBERNI—Accommodation at Alberni District High School is so scarce that classes are being held in the cafeteria. Grade 8 students have to use their assembly period for home economics instruction.

Derby Catch—One Fish

PORT ALBERNI—From a fisherman's point of view, the second annual Knights of Columbus tyee derby could hardly be called a success.

Only one fish was landed. Contestants came from Victoria, Vancouver, New Westminster, Duncan, and Nanaimo in addition to the local knights.

Jack Sherry of Nanaimo took the Argyle Construction Co. trophy with a salmon weighing 16½ pounds.

The derby followed a 5 a.m. Mass said by Rev. A. E. Leonard. A salmon luncheon was held at the conclusion of the event.

PARKSVILLE—A capacity crowd saw the traveling gavel ceremony at Parksville Legion Hall when the gavel was presented to Mr. Arrowsmith branch by Claycoquit branch of Tofino.

The gavel was presented by past president Douglas Busswood of Tofino, accepted by zone commander Ernie Iloit and then presented to Mr. Arrowsmith branch president Ian E. Hall.

Fish and Game Club Told:

Thousands of Trout Fry Freed In Four Ladysmith Area Lakes

LADYSMITH—Some 13,000 trout fry have been planted in local lakes during recent weeks, game warden Frank Greenfield told members of Ladysmith Fish and Game Protective Association this week.

He said 3,000 fry were released in both Michael and Priests Lakes; 2,000 cutthroat in Blind Lake, and 5,000 in Crystal Lake.

Tabled until next meeting was a decision on whether or not to approve use of salmon roe for trout fishing.

Secretary Ashley Bodaly said that a law which could not be enforced should be abolished. It was generally agreed that it was an impossible task for wardens to control the situation owing to the widespread use of roe in defiance of the law by large numbers of fishermen, he said.

Jack Hulme, Jr., stated he deplored not so much the use of roe as the slaughter of fish to obtain it. Such wanton destruction was not sporting.

Bill Cullum estimated the period which salmon roe would normally be used if approved for steelhead fishing would be the three months of December, January and February. Use of live crayfish was supported.

Pioneers' Day Due

LADYSMITH—Pioneers' Day will be observed here Saturday.

A dedication of a bronze plaque and celebration in honor of those who gave the Community Park as a playground for residents of the whole district will highlight the program.

Rev. G. Arthur Bagshaw, longtime resident of this district, will officiate at the unveiling of the plaque which is affixed to a stone cairn in honor of the park founders.

Following a dedication supper there will be a round table discussion of old times and a Community Park quiz with J. E. Kingsley as quizmaster. Moving pictures will be shown to the children while adults will hold old-time social evening.

History of Parkville Community Park goes back more than 30 years to 1923 when a group of citizens decided to purchase the 39-acre lot from the late Albert Hirst as a local park site.

The park now boasts a fine sports ground, camping and picnic sites and one of the best beaches on Vancouver Island.

Island Centres Hit New Machinery Tax

Two Vancouver Island centres have voiced strong disapproval of the machinery tax proposed under the new Equalization Assessment Act.

Ladysmith Chamber of Commerce had been signed by the requisite number of property owners.

The council had negotiated a new enterprise. Port Alberni council is seeking special consideration from the government on the same question.

The Ladysmith group has written to Premier W. A. C. Bennett who is also finance minister, voicing its objections. A copy of the letter will go to the B.C. Chamber of Commerce seeking support.

"FAIREST" TAX The issue was raised by John Cochrane who said he would like to see the return of the 1-per-cent personal property tax, which was the fairest for everybody.

Reginald Pringle added his protest to the "injustice of the machinery tax."

Members pointed out there was a 5-per-cent purchase tax on all machinery to begin with and that the new tax, year after year, was an imposition on the person whose business involved machinery.

John MacNaughton stated the tax would discourage new industries coming to the province.

Discussion at Port Alberni council centred on the fixed agreements with Bloedel, Stewart and Welch Ltd. (now MacMillan & Bloedel) which will affect the city's share of financing school costs in the district.

Industrial machinery, which under the new act must be assessed for school purposes, may increase the city's share of responsibility for educational costs but, because of the agreement, will produce no extra revenue.

City clerk H. D. Thain reported that John Squire, MLA for Alberni, had already brought the city's position to the attention of Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

Ald. W. C. Hamilton emphasized that the contract on the fixed assessment had been made years ago after a petition oil today if this fixed agreement were to rebound to the disadvantage of the city.

A report from William Fraser, delegate to the provincial assessors' association convention, said officials are now negotiating the equalization act will not be completed in less than four years.

New Highways Provincial Goal

Highways both north and south of the Fraser River from Vancouver to Hope is the ultimate aim of the provincial government, Premier W. A. C. Bennett said yesterday.

The premier made the comment upon his return from the official ceremonies marking the start of the new $4,000,000 Agassiz-Rosedale bridge. He said the new bridge would fit into the general plan of improving Mainland highways by forming a link halfway between Hope and Vancouver.

Closing of the Agassiz-Haig gap on the north shore of the Fraser would link Agassiz with Hope.

Commenting on the B.C. Toll Bridges and Highways Authority, under which the new bridge is being built, the premier said the authority would "help the people of British Columbia to help themselves" in obtaining needed bridges and highways.

ONLY THING WORSE

He said the government did not favor toll bridges but "the only thing worse than a toll bridge is no bridge at all." Under the toll authority the government pays 2 1/2 per cent of the cost of a bridge per year towards the annual debt charges. The rest comes from the tolls until the bridge is paid for after which it becomes free.

The premier said the system is "unique" in North America. He called it a "partnership" of the government and the bridge users.

At the same time the premier

More Look For Work

OTTAWA (CP)—Employment in Canada continued to rise during August, but the number at work still was less than a year earlier.

The government's monthly survey of employment, estimated that at August 21 there were 4,748,000 persons working full-time and 174,000 without jobs and looking for work.

A year earlier, there had been 4,520,000 at work and 92,000 seeking employment.

The estimates were made by the bureau of statistics, which issues the monthly report jointly with the department of labor.

Victoria Man Weds Up-Island

Baskets of fall gardenias in rich autumn shades decorated St. James' Anglican Church, Ladysmith, for the recent wedding which united the bride, Jennifer Mavis Lashburn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lashburn, 101 Bond Street, and the groom, George Edward Binsley, son of Mrs. Edward Binsley, 101 Bond Street.

The bride wore a gown of white net with tulle and lace, and a long train. She carried a bouquet of gardenias. The groom wore a dark suit. The wedding was officiated by the Rev. H. F. Dwyer.

A reception in the bride's home followed the ceremony. The bride and groom were accompanied by their parents and other relatives.

The bride's bridesmaids were Misses Lashburn and Binsley. The groom's best man was Mr. Binsley. The wedding was a private affair.

FROM 10 A.M. TO 12 NOON TODAY

All Districts Will Be Canvassed

If you wish to have flowers picked up from your home this morning

PHONE 3-4111

AS SOON AS POSSIBLE

During the fall flowering season, gardeners will again have the opportunity of sharing their flowers with the many shut-ins who so thoroughly appreciate this generous gesture. Remember, no matter how small your floral gift is, it is most welcome, so do not hesitate to phone and have it picked up. Flowers should be tied or wrapped to avoid damage.

Volunteers Wanted to Assist in Flower Collection

Those who are able to offer the services of cars and a little of their own time are requested to phone the Colonist at 3-4111. Your help in making collections would be greatly appreciated.

GOING TO NEW YORK?

Include New Orleans — little extra fare!

On Your Roundtrip to New York and most other Atlantic seaboard cities you can go or return via California, the sunny southwest, the Old South and romantic New Orleans for very little additional rail fare than it costs to go straight East and back.

Ride famous streamliners with all-room Pullmans and luxury chair cars all the way. Our famous Dayliners, Overland and Lark will speed you from Portland to San Francisco and Los Angeles. From Los Angeles through coast-to-coast Pullman service is provided on the State Streamliner Sunset Limited. While not the shortest route it certainly is the most scenic. You'll see California, the Mexican border and desert resort country of the sunny southwest. All these San Antonio, Houston, miles of bayouland, glamorous New Orleans, then on through historic homes of the Old South to Washington, Philadelphia, New York, St. Louis, etc., where you'll find your next trip east plan to go this thrilling way. You'll never regret it.

Ask about the big savings S.P. offers in Family Fare to eastern and midwestern cities.

BY HAROLD HEFFERNAN
HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Because he gets thousands of challenging letters every time he makes a Biblical drama, Cecil B. DeMille is already preparing a sequel to his 1926 silent epic. The duer feels, will be his showing Pharaoh Ramses himself ordering the last plague—the plague of death to the firstborn. The Bible says Moses ordered it. DeMille felt that Moses, despite ing an old Greek Bible for a Biblical film just as he has done for "The Ten Commandments." Wrote she: "If English was good enough for our Saviour it ought to be good enough for you."

to answer all those we will love, we will come—yes—voluntarily, but we will come—yes—voluntarily.

Only a small portion of his people, he said, have been converted to Christianity. However, he said, he had been able to write him their emotional and spiritual anguish, and he said, "One that he treasures came from a woman dying of an incurable disease." "Seeing the king of Egypt has changed his mind, he is going to a place from a terror to a place of anticipation."

where in the Bible story of the exodus is this mentioned. But DeMile claims he has found documentation for it.

Bible says Moses was 50 years old when he led his people out of the country. DeMile says he has found "proof" that Moses was fan-that it was a similar order when Moses was a baby that caused his Levite mother to put him into the Nile river to feed him. DeMile says he has found documentation for this. He claims to have been successful in his career. His only hope, he says, is that he remain well and vigorous enough to finish it. About this comment, the doctors gave him a clean bill of health.

'Cruel Sea' Author Rates B.C. Roads Best After 5,075-Mile Motor Tour

Famed author Nicholas Monsarrat in Victoria was Capt. Roland W. Stacey, marine surveyor and wartime friend of the former naval officer.

The author, 44-year-old, recalls turning over the frigate Ettrick to Capt. Stacey at Halifax in 1943.

Mr. Monsarrat said yesterday his car performed well on the trip "without any trouble." He said he is a connoisseur of continental and British sports cars.

British Columbia's highways got the nod from the author as Canada's best, with Nova Scotia a close second.

He has been writing since 1933 and has just sold the film rights of his latest book, "The Story of Esther Costello," a tale about exploitation of a blind girl.

Missing Laborer Located, Didn't Know He Was Rich

VANCOUVER (CP)—Timothy Walsh, 45-year-old laborer who disappeared from Vancouver last June, has not been permitted to enter Canada because he does not meet Canadian requirements. He declined to give reasons.

"I have never belonged to any subversive political parties," he said. "My family is in good health."

VANCOUVER (CP)—A union official said Wednesday there is possibility of an immediate settlement in a labor dispute between three Vancouver contracting firms and 200 members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

George Gee, union business agent, said the firms have made an offer for a proposed settlement, and that a special meeting of the union membership has been called for Thursday night.

He declined to disclose the nature of the offer, but said "the position is considerably improved."

VANCOUVER (CP)—Aiko Salta, British Columbia-born Japanese opera singer, has died of cancer in a Tokyo hospital, a relative reported here Wednesday.

She was born at Cloverdale, B.C.

VANCOUVER (BUP)—The director of the B.C. research council, Dr. Gordon M. Shrum, said modern jet bombers and fighters will be obsolete in five years.

Dr. Shrum told the International Northwest Aviation Council meeting in Vancouver that the modern aircraft will be replaced by guided missiles by 1959. He said the guided missiles will be able to cover up to 4,000 miles in an hour and drop an H-bomb within 100 yards of its target.

NELSON, B.C. (CP)—RCMP here said Wednesday they are investigating "suspicious" circumstances surrounding a fire which destroyed a general store and sleeping quarters in the Sons of Freedom Doukhonor community of Krestova.

Three Renamed To UBC Board

Three men have been re-elected senate representatives on the University of British Columbia board of governors for second three-year terms.

They are Judge Arthur E. Lord, John M. Buchanan and Kenneth Cople, it was announced yesterday by President Norman A. M. MacKenzie.

Recently elected to serve three-year terms as university senate members are:

Dr. John Allardice, department of biology and botany; Dr. W. J. Anderson, department of agriculture, economics; C. B. Bourne, faculty of law; Dr. J. R. Campbell, department of dairying; Dr. D. Harold Copp, department of physiology, and L. G. R. Crouch, department of mining and metallurgy.

Dr. Ralph D. James, department of mathematics; Dr. F. A. Kaempfer, department of physics; F. Malcolm Knapp, faculty of forestry; Dr. M. M. MacIntyre, faculty of law, and Finlay A. Morrison, faculty of pharmacy.

Dr. H. Rocke Robertson, faculty of medicine; F. H. Soward, department of history, and Dr. R. W. Wellwood, faculty of forestry.

Pickford Rites Slated Today

Mass will be celebrated today in St. Andrew's Cathedral for Mrs. Rosina Elizabeth Pickford, who died Tuesday at her home, 124 Moss.

Interment will follow at Royal Oak Burial Park.

Mrs. Pickford, 69, was a Victoria resident for 30 years. She was born in Whitehorse Plains, Manitoba.

Prayers were offered yesterday at McCall's Funeral Home.

She is survived by her husband, Arthur, a daughter, Margaret Elizabeth, at home and two sons, James, of Victoria, and John W., of Vancouver. Mrs. Pickford also leaves three grandchildren three sisters and two brothers.

Church Hits Club License

Church officials of Vancouver's Fairview Baptist Church have protested to Attorney-General Robert Bonner over the granting of a liquor license in their area.

Mr. Bonner yesterday refused the granting of what they termed "this kind of license."

That is, to a club organized for the promotion of sport.

Clubs of this kind are usually granted lounge licenses (cocktail bars) or dining-lounge licenses (for sale of liquor and on his trip.

Board of Deacons of the church, which:

"Keenly regrets that the attorney-general of B.C. has seen fit to authorize the granting of a liquor license to the Vancouver Lawn Tennis Club without effectively acceding to the request of the ministers of the Canadian Memorial United Church and Fairview Baptist Church for opportunity to make personal representations to him with respect to the granting of the said license."

The church board expressed surprise, furthermore, at the granting of the license "in a residential area in the face of the attorney-general's assurance of last February 15 that no licenses would be issued for residential areas."

The church officials also protested the granting of the license.

Milk Price Up

SEATTLE (UP)—Home-delivered milk was up a cent a quart Wednesday as a result of increased prices posted by nearly all dairies in this area.

The increase put the price at between 20½ cents to 21½ cents a quart, Frank Bird, secretary of the Seattle Dairy Foundation, said.

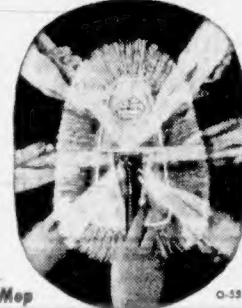

Wholesale prices to stores were increased from 18 to 19 cents, he said.

Attlee Urges Ousting of Chiang

LONDON (CP)—Labor leader Clement Attlee, returning Wednesday from his tour behind the Iron and Bamboo curtains, said he believes "the sooner we get rid of Chiang Kai-shek and his troops the better it will be." The former prime minister told reporters at London airport after an overnight flight from Canada that the "biggest difficulty of all" in the Orient is Formosa, island stronghold of Chiang's Chinese Nationalists. Attlee, who talked with top

Russian and Chinese Communist leaders, said he felt there had been a relaxation of tension in the Orient following the Indo-China truce agreement at Geneva.

He declined comment on the United Nations general assembly's decision Tuesday in declining to transfer China's representation in the world organization from the Nationalists to the Communists, and postponing debate on the issue for another year.

Attlee led a Labor Party delegation which visited Moscow and Peking and took a fairly extensive tour through Communist China. Other members of the party including left-winger Aneurin Bevan, already have returned to London.

Attlee visited Australia and New Zealand, flew home across the Pacific, and made a flying trip across Canada.

Attlee and his wife, who joined him in Singapore, were greeted here by their two daughters and a grandchild.

But no high-ranking members of the Labor Party turned up. The party's national executive committee, preparing for the annual party conference next week at Scarborough, was wrangling over the issue of West German rearmament at the moment Attlee's plane landed.

SAFETY MEN CONFERENCE

The annual meeting of the Safety Conference of the B.C. Lumber Manufacturers Association will be held Friday at Port Alberni.

One of five annual meetings held in major coast lumbering centres, it will discuss and deal with matters pertaining to accident prevention in sawmills, shingle mills and plywood mills of member companies.

Fifty safety directors will take part. In the forenoon they will tour the MacMillan and Bloedel Alberni Pacific Division and in the afternoon the plywood division.

Still Secret British Experts Sailing To Study Supersonic Plane

SOUTHAMPTON, England (CP)—Four of Britain's leading aircraft brains boarded the liner Queen Elizabeth for Canada Wednesday night to study a new Canadian supersonic fighter plane said to be "better than anything of its kind in the world."

The all-weather plane now is passing through its experimental stage at the A. V. Roe Canada Ltd. plant.

In the group, which sails for Canada today on the 83,000-ton liner, are Sir Frank Spriggs, managing director of the Hawker Siddeley Group Ltd., Sir Thomas Sopwith, chairman of the Hawker Siddeley Group; Sir Roy Dobson, managing di-

Jamaica Beauty Says Can't Forgive, Forget

BY FRED WILMOT
Special Colonist Correspondent

KINGSTON, Jamaica—Dorothy Holtz Hewitt, the slim beauty who stirred up an international incident at Shawnigan Lake School, will "never forgive or forget" the "narrow prejudice" of the headmaster and governors of the school who spoiled her wedding and exposed her to shame 5,000 miles from home.

But she graciously absolves Canadians as a whole.

Mrs. Hewitt pinned down the bias to "small, narrow-minded hypocrites" whose intolerance forced her to flee the ingrown community life of the school.

Responsible for the entire matter, she said, were "a small section of the people on Vancouver Island, not the whole of Canada."

Jamaica's 130-year-old newspaper, The Gleaner, headlined what they termed the "insult."

And the resolution passed by the Jamaica House of Representatives deplored the treatment meted out to the young model as front-page news, also.

PUBLIC HONOR

The Jamaican public is sizing.

Dorothy is a typical product of the blood mixture in the tropics. Her father's ancestry is Jewish, French, colored and German, while her mother is Jewish, French and colored.

The typical bulk of the middle class in Jamaica is identifiable only as "West Indian." Jamaicans cannot understand singling out one blood strain contrary to the general pattern here, where color is second to personal accomplishments and social position.

Colored people are found in all levels of the social scale, in high positions of government, ministers of state, the legal profession and business world.

Jamaica's cabinet is all shades from near-white Chief Minister Butemante to black Labor Minister Jehouda McPherson.

NOT ASHAMED

The color problem ("blood taint") is so insignificant that blue-eyed, curly-haired Jamaicans with black great-grandmothers still call themselves colored without shame and take great exception to deprecating terms.

Three Convicts Die Prisoners Stage Mass Riot Under Guards' Blazing Guns

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (UP)—The Missouri penitentiary roared with gunfire and flame last night as incorrigible convicts broke loose from solitary confinement and set other inmates free to stage a mass riot.

At least three convicts were reported shot to death and 15 others wounded as hastily summoned highway patrolmen and augmented guard units poured a steady fusillade of lead into the flame-lit prison yard. More than 300 convicts roamed the area.

The patrolmen and guards were under orders from Gov. Phil M. Donnelly to "shoot to kill."

Tower lights were turned out while officers fired into a yard lit only by flickering flames of at least four buildings set afire by the rioting inmates.

A light wind wafted sparks from the burning structures toward adjacent residences. Firemen waited at the prison entrance for the gun battle to end.

BREAK FEARED

A huge crowd of spectators was pushed back in case of a mass surge over the prison walls.

Judge Sam Blair, who had sentenced many of the prisoners, walked into the prison yard during a lull in the firing to try to reason with the rioters.

When he emerged a few minutes later, however, he reported he "wasn't able to do much."

Prison authorities and Gov. Donnelly were unable immediately to establish the cause of the violent flareup which started shortly after dark.

GUARD RESCUED

One guard, Oscar Carrington, who had been locked in a cell block by the rioters, was rescued by inside-the-wall guards. He had been shot in the foot and cut by flying glass.

Rocks' Return Looms

(Special to The Daily Colonist)

PETERBOROUGH—Victoria Shamrocks and the Canadian Lacrosse Association reached an impasse late last night, with the strong possibility that the western team may fly back home today.

The Shamrocks handed the CLA an ultimatum that they would withdraw from the Mann Cup series if the remainder of the series was not moved indoors.

The lacrosse body, after all-day and all-night meetings, replied that the fourth game must be played tonight in the outdoor Miller Bowl if weather conditions are favorable.

If conditions are not, another postponement will be necessary.

But the CLA made a major concession when it was ruled that if a postponement is necessary, the series will be transferred to the indoor Civic Arena.

The CLA threatened the Irish with suspension if the team refused to play outdoors tonight, weather permitting.

Officials of Peterborough Trailermen, who lead the best-of-seven series 2-1, have arranged to move games scheduled for Friday, Saturday and Monday nights to the arena if rain prevents them from being played in the 3,000-seat bowl. The arena seats 2,000.

But the arena won't be available tonight.

Have Flowers Ready by 10

Final collection of blooms for this year through the Colonist's share-the-flowers plan starts at 10 a.m. today and gardeners of Greater Victoria who have offered to donate surplus flowers are asked to have them ready by that time.

Blooms contributed to today's collection will be distributed among patients in the Victoria Nursing Home and St. Mary's Priory.

Northwest of Nome Japan Sure H-Blast Recently Set by Reds

TOKYO (AP)—The newspaper Asahi says today Japanese scientists have "almost conclusive evidence" that the Russians recently exploded an H-bomb on an island 500 miles northwest of Nome, Alaska.

The paper quoted Japanese researchers at the Tokyo meteorological laboratory as estimating the explosion took place in late August or early September on Wrangel Island. The island lies within the Arctic circle due west of Point Barrow, Alaska.

Russia announced last Friday it had exploded an "atomic weapon" to study the battle of feet. The brief Moscow announcement said the explosion took place "in the Soviet Union during recent days."

Intelligence reports have indicated the Russians have been using Wrangel Island as a base for guided missiles and other military tests.

Death Ruled Suicide

WHITE ROCK, B.C. (CP)—A coroner's jury Wednesday night decided that Mrs. Daisy E. Loughnan met her death from self-inflicted wounds, but mystery still surrounds the manner in which she took her life.

The body of the 65-year-old woman was found by her son, Brian, of Victoria, lying on the floor of her small cottage here August 18.

Two pieces of evidence played a major role in forming the jury's verdict.

SUICIDE NOTE

One was a suicide note written some days before and the other a pair of brown shoes containing heavy wooden shoe trees.

Both shoes and trees were blood-stained and coated with sand. One of the trees was also coated with blood to which hair was stuck.

Actual cause of death was the hemorrhaging of an artery in the head with a bone fracture a secondary cause.

Dr. Lewis Herberts of New Westminster, who performed the autopsy, testified that Mrs. Loughnan could have smashed her face and head against the two objects, or struck herself with them.

Her mother sizzled—then broke the news to the local press. Public indignation broke out.

Hundreds of telegrams and telephone calls deluged the home from the press and public in Canada offering sympathy, employment and apologies.

What next?

"I feel so rotten about that place and those people," Dorothy said, "because what was to have been the beginning of a beautiful marriage in with them."

Once-Popular Master Now Friendless at School

BY ALEC MERRIMAN

John Michael Hewitt, luckless husband of a Jamaican beauty, is a virtual outcast among the masters and students at Shawnigan Lake School where he teaches. The Daily Colonist learned yesterday.

Until he married Dorothy Holtz, daughter of Jamaica's accountant-general, Mr. Hewitt, it is reported, was one of the school's most popular masters.

Now he is friendless at the school and spends his evenings alone in the cottage he was to share with his bride.

She returned to Jamaica last week after only four days of married life and said she was given five days' notice to leave the school "before the boys come and see a colored person here."

Her story has now boiled into an international incident with the Jamaican government protesting to the Canadian government over the insult.

At the school yesterday it was quite evident that the 130 boys and the school masters are solidly and stolidly behind headmaster G. P. Kaye and the school board of governors.

"The prestige of the school will win out," was a comment heard from several.

NA one would comment on the actual incident, but several indicated they knew the details and that the whole story has not yet been told, and probably never would be.

One went so far as to say that Mrs. Holtz Hewitt had not told the whole truth in her statements. Mr. Hewitt, he said, had told only half of the truth.

"If he was to tell the whole story it would shed a different light on the matter," this speaker added.

Another said Mr. Hewitt should go back to Jamaica immediately "where he undoubtedly would get a very fine job." He added that "Hewitt was a very valuable man at the Shawnigan school."

It is obvious the schoolboys and masters are not in favor of Mrs. Hewitt living on the school grounds.

Some urged that Mr. Hewitt tell the whole story and clear up "all this poppycock."

When Dorothy Holtz arrived at the school to marry Mr. Hewitt she was entertained at supper parties at the homes of the masters. "We had great admiration for her then," said one of the masters yesterday.

Yet the idea of a mixed marriage was looked upon unfavorably by everyone. The Daily Colonist talked with at the school.

From Jamaica Mrs. Hewitt said the trouble started when she met the headmaster's wife, Mrs. Kaye.

No difficulty arose when the headmaster met her on arrival at the school, she said, but his wife, who was not present then, met her the following day.

"Then the trouble started," Mrs. Hewitt said.

Her mother, Mrs. Holtz, said, "It was a most inhuman way that anyone could have been treated. Surely the headmaster, his wife and children should have realized how my child, alone over there, must have felt at such cruel and wicked treatment."

"People like these will come out in Jamaica and pretend to be nice, but the minute they are in their own country they talk about color and say because you are colored you cannot mix with them."

Mr. Hewitt had left the school in his car when this reporter visited; but he spoke to The Daily Colonist later by telephone.

Headmaster Kaye was courteous, but refused to discuss the incident, since the board of governors has issued a statement that "to comment further on the various statements attributed to Mr. and Mrs. Hewitt would only add bitterness to an already regrettable misunderstanding."

It would now appear that the incident started when headmaster Kaye gave the young couple a talk about the dangers of mixed marriages. Some of his advice apparently was misconstrued.

But it is believed that this is only part of the trouble. There is still an other side to the matter. The Daily Colonist was assured on every hand.

There is a possibility of the marriage being annulled.

But Mr. Hewitt emphatically denies he would consider this course of action. He pledged all his savings in furnishing a house and buying a car for his bride and could not afford to give up his job to join her in Jamaica.

Shawnigan Lake School yesterday was a hive of industry and there was no indication of the "scandal."

A swimming gala was in progress in the lake, students roamed around the grounds attending to their chores, looking after the school animals, and working on renovating a clubhouse.

The $500,000 establishment with its several buildings, including a church used by many of the residents of Shawnigan Lake, was founded in 1915 by C. W. Lonsdale when he had only three students.

Today there are few private schools on the continent the equal of this one.

Italy Premier Asked To Quit, Riots Feared

ROME (AP) — Italy's powerful Communist party Wednesday night charged pro-Western Premier Mario Scelba with full responsibility for the Wilma Montesi death scandal and demanded his resignation.

The manoeuvre by the largest Communist party organization outside the Iron Curtain had been anticipated. Scelba promised to answer the charges today.

Before the government shaking storm broke on the senate floor, police chiefs of key Italian cities, summoned urgently to Rome, were briefed on how to carry out anti-riot operations.

A high police official said the Communists were expected to stage "disorders and demonstrations."

The Communist assault — joined by fellow-traveling Socialists — developed from the intention Tuesday night of two prominent Romans. They are Piero Piccioni, 32, jazz pianist, son of Attilio Piccioni, who resigned last Saturday as Italy's foreign minister in order, he said, "to defend my son and my family's good name," and a rich, self-styled marquis named Ugo Montagna.

Later Scelba returned and announced he would speak today. Piero Piccioni was arrested Tuesday night on charges of manslaughter in the death of Miss Montesi.

BODILY ON BEACH
Both are accused in connection with the death of Miss Montesi, a shapely, 21-year-old party girl. Her death has led to allegations of sex and drug orgies involving persons high in Italy's society and politics. Her nearly nude body was found on the beach at Ostia, Rome's Coney Island, in April, 1953.

From the floor of the senate Senator Umberto Terracini, Communist senate leader, accused Scelba of "being responsible for the Montesi affair."

"We cannot tolerate being governed by anybody under any kind of suspicion," he asserted. "If Piccioni paid for suspicion on his son by resigning, you, Scelba, should do the same."

BITES HIS NAILS

In response to cries of "shut up" from Scelba's Christian Democrat party benches, Communists and Socialists shouted for a confidence vote. Scelba nervously bit his nails, and scribbled notes while Terracini spoke.

When the Communist leader had finished, Senator Emilio Lussu, a member of the Moscow-oriented Socialist party, rose and seconded the call for the premier's resignation. The tough, stocky Scelba, who is also interior minister and therefore in charge of all Italian police, stomped from the chamber, ignoring Lussu's demand for an immediate reply to the charges.

Later Scelba returned and announced he would speak today. Piero Piccioni was arrested Tuesday night on charges of manslaughter in the death of Miss Montesi.

DRUG ORGY CHARGE

Police issued a certificate of death by drowning, but neo-Fascist magazine editor Silvano Muto claimed Wilma died during a drug orgy at the luxurious hunting lodge run by the Marquis Ugo Montagna, 36, outside Rome.

Montagna surrendered Tuesday night.

Have Flowers Ready by 10

Final collection of blooms for this year through the Colonist's share-the-flowers plan starts at 10 a.m. today and gardeners of Greater Victoria who have offered to donate surplus flowers are asked to have them ready by that time.

Blooms contributed to today's collection will be distributed among patients in the Victoria Nursing Home and St. Mary's Priory.

TB in Dead Cattle Spurs Major Search

VANCOUVER (CP) — Discovery of tuberculosis in seven slaughtered cattle from a nearby Lulu Island farm Wednesday touched off an intensive search for the source of the disease.

Dr. F. W. B. Smith, chief federal inspector of animal health in Vancouver, said the search will include farm work.

ers, farmers and their families and "any possible carrier or infected animal or person."

Dr. Smith said discovery of the disease will not prevent the Fraser Valley from being declared TB-free, since one-tenth of one per cent of cattle can be infected in any given area and still be considered free of the disease.

The inspector said he suspected three beef cattle first found to be infected came from the Merritt area, and added that a close check was under way there.

The farm from which the seven infected animals came originally had 20 head, six of which were dairy cattle, but no milk was being shipped from the farm.

The prediction was made by A. J. Haley of Washington, D.C., president of the society, which is holding its fall meeting here.

Now he is friendless at the school and spends his evenings alone in the cottage he was to share with his bride.

She returned to Jamaica last week after only four days of married life and said she was given five days' notice to leave the school "before the boys come and see a colored person here."

Her story has now boiled into an international incident with the Jamaican government protesting to the Canadian government over the insult.

Honeymoon Cottage Lonely

This is the cottage on the grounds of Shawnigan Lake School where lonely Michael John Hewitt waits hopefully for the return of his Jamaican bride. School governors have said the cottage is still, and always has been, available for the newly married couple. Mr. Hewitt sank all his savings in furniture and a car for his bride and cannot now afford to return to Jamaica to join her. Word is awaited here as to whether or not the pretty model and aquatic star will accept the school governors' invitation to return to the school and "talk things over."

(Special to The Daily Colonist)

PETERBOROUGH — Victoria Shamrocks and the Canadian Lacrosse Association reached an impasse late last night, with the strong possibility that the western team may fly back home today.

The Shamrocks handed the CLA an ultimatum that they would withdraw from the Mann Cup series if the remainder of the series was not moved indoors.

The lacrosse body, after all-day and all-night meetings, replied that the fourth game must be played tonight in the outdoor Miller Bowl if weather conditions are favorable.

If conditions are not, another postponement will be necessary. But the CLA made a major concession when it was ruled that, if a postponement is necessary, the series will be transferred to the indoor Civic Arena.

The CLA threatened the Irish with suspension if the team refused to play outdoors tonight, weather permitting.

Officials of Peterborough Trailermen, who lead the best-of-seven series 2-1, have arranged to move games scheduled for Friday, Saturday and Monday nights to the arena if rain prevents them from being played in the 3,000-seat bowl. The arena seats 2,000.

But the arena won't be available tonight.

Canadian Aircraft 'Beats Anything Of Kind in World'

British Experts Sail To Study New Plane

SOUTHAMPTON, England (CP) — Four of Britain's leading aircraft brains boarded the liner Queen Elizabeth for Canada Wednesday night to study a new Canadian supersonic fighter plane said to be "better than anything of its kind in the world."

The all-weather plane now is passing through its experimental stage at the A. V. Roe Canada Ltd. plant.

In the group, which sails for Canada today on the $3,000-ton liner, are Sir Frank Spriggs, managing director of the Hawker Siddeley Group Ltd.; Sir Thomas Sopwith, chairman of the Hawker Siddeley Group; Sir Roy Dobson, managing director of the A. V. Roe Company, and Air Marshal W. A. Curtis, vice-chairman of the board of directors for A. V. Roe Canada.

Spriggs said the plane still is on the secret list but is capable of flying at supersonic speed in level flight.

"It is the answer to anything the Soviet Union may have," he said. "It is better, we believe, than anything of its kind in the world."

When he emerged a few minutes later, however, he reported he "wasn't able to do much."

Prison authorities and Gov. Donnelly were unable immediately to establish the cause of the violent flareup which started shortly after dark.

GUARD RESCUED
One guard, Oscar Carrington, who had been locked in a cell block, by the rioters, was rescued by inside-the-wall guards. He had been shot in the foot and cut by flying glass.

He reported the centre prison yard and nearby buildings were a shambles. He said another guard, Henry C. Adkins, still was locked inside.

The rioting convicts had set fire to a theatre, chapel, twine factory and cleaning plant. The fires died down momentarily as the shouting, cursing men set up a bedlam in the yard.

The penitentiary has a population of 3,287 convicts. It was believed many of the prisoners milling in the yard were not part of the rioting mob.

BREAK FEARED
A huge crowd of spectators was pushed back in case of a mass surge over the prison walls.

Judge Sam Blair, who had sentenced many of the prisoners, walked into the prison yard during a lull in the firing to try to reason with the rioters.

When he emerged a few minutes later, however, he reported he "wasn't able to do much."

Heads Dealers

Murder Charge Reduced

TORONTO (CP) — John Harvey Snider, 24, was acquitted of murder Wednesday but convicted of manslaughter in the skipping-rope strangling of his 22-year-old blonde wife, Shirley, last March 1. Snider, a city hall clerk who also worked nights at a theatre, will be sentenced next Wednesday.

Snider said in court that, the night of the slaying, his wife told him she planned to go away with another man. He said he put his hands around her throat but did not intend to kill her.

Death Ruled Suicide

WHITE ROCK, B.C. (CP) — A coroner's jury Wednesday night decided that Mrs. Daisy E. Loughnan met her death from self-inflicted wounds, but mystery still surrounds the manner in which she took her life. The body of the 63-year-old woman was found by her son, Brian, of Victoria, lying on the floor of her small cottage here August 18.

Two pieces of evidence played a major role in forming the jury's verdict.

SUICIDE NOTE
One was a suicide note written some days before and the other a pair of brown shoes containing heavy wooden shoe trees.

Both shoes and trees were bloodstained and coated with sand. One of the trees was also coated with blood to which hair was stuck.

Actual cause of death was the hemorrhaging of an artery in the head with a bone fracture a secondary cause.

Dr. Lewis Herberts of New Westminster, who performed the autopsy, testified that Mrs. Loughnan could have smashed her face and head against the two objects or struck herself with them.

City Widow Wins Damages
SASKATOON (CP) — A Court of Queen's Bench jury Wednesday found the University of Saskatchewan liable for the death two years ago of Roland Taylor of Victoria who accidentally fell down an empty elevator shaft at the university while being taken on a tour by a faculty member.

The jury awarded general damages of $26,400 to the widow, Mrs. Shirley Taylor, and set special damages at $200.

Once-Popular Master Now Friendless at School

BY ALEC MERRIMAN

John Michael Hewitt, luckless husband of a Jamaican beauty, is a virtual outcast among the masters and students at Shawnigan Lake School where he teaches. The Daily Colonist learned yesterday.

Until he married Dorothy Holtz, daughter of Jamaica's accountant-general, Mr. Hewitt, it is reported, was one of the school's most popular masters.

Now he is friendless at the school and spends his evenings alone in the cottage he was to share with his bride.

She returned to Jamaica last week after only four days of married life and said she was given five days' notice to leave the school "before the boys come and see a colored person here."

Her story has now boiled into an international incident with the Jamaican government protesting to the Canadian government over the insult.

At the school yesterday it was quite evident that the 130 boys and the school masters are solidly and solidly behind headmaster G. F. Kaye and the school board of governors.

"The prestige of the school will win out," was a comment heard from several.

No one would comment on the actual incident, but several indicated they knew the details and that the whole story has not yet been told, and probably never would be.

One went so far as to say that Mrs. Holtz Hewitt had not told the whole truth in her statements. Mr. Hewitt, he said, had told only half of the truth.

"If he was to tell the whole story it would shed a different light on the matter," this speaker added.

Another said Mr. Hewitt should go back to Jamaica immediately, where he undoubtedly would get a very fine job. He added that "Hewitt was a very valuable man at the Shawnigan school."

Headmaster Kaye was courteous, but refused to discuss the incident, since the board of governors has issued a statement that "to comment further on the various statements attributed to Mr. and Mrs. Hewitt would only add bitterness to an already regrettable misunderstanding."

It would now appear that the incident started when headmaster Kaye gave the young couple a talk about the dangers of mixed marriages. Some of his advice apparently was misconstrued.

But it is believed that this is only part of the trouble. There is still an
